Our History

A proud tradition of providing a specialised and quality service for organisations trading to and from Ireland for almost 40 Years.

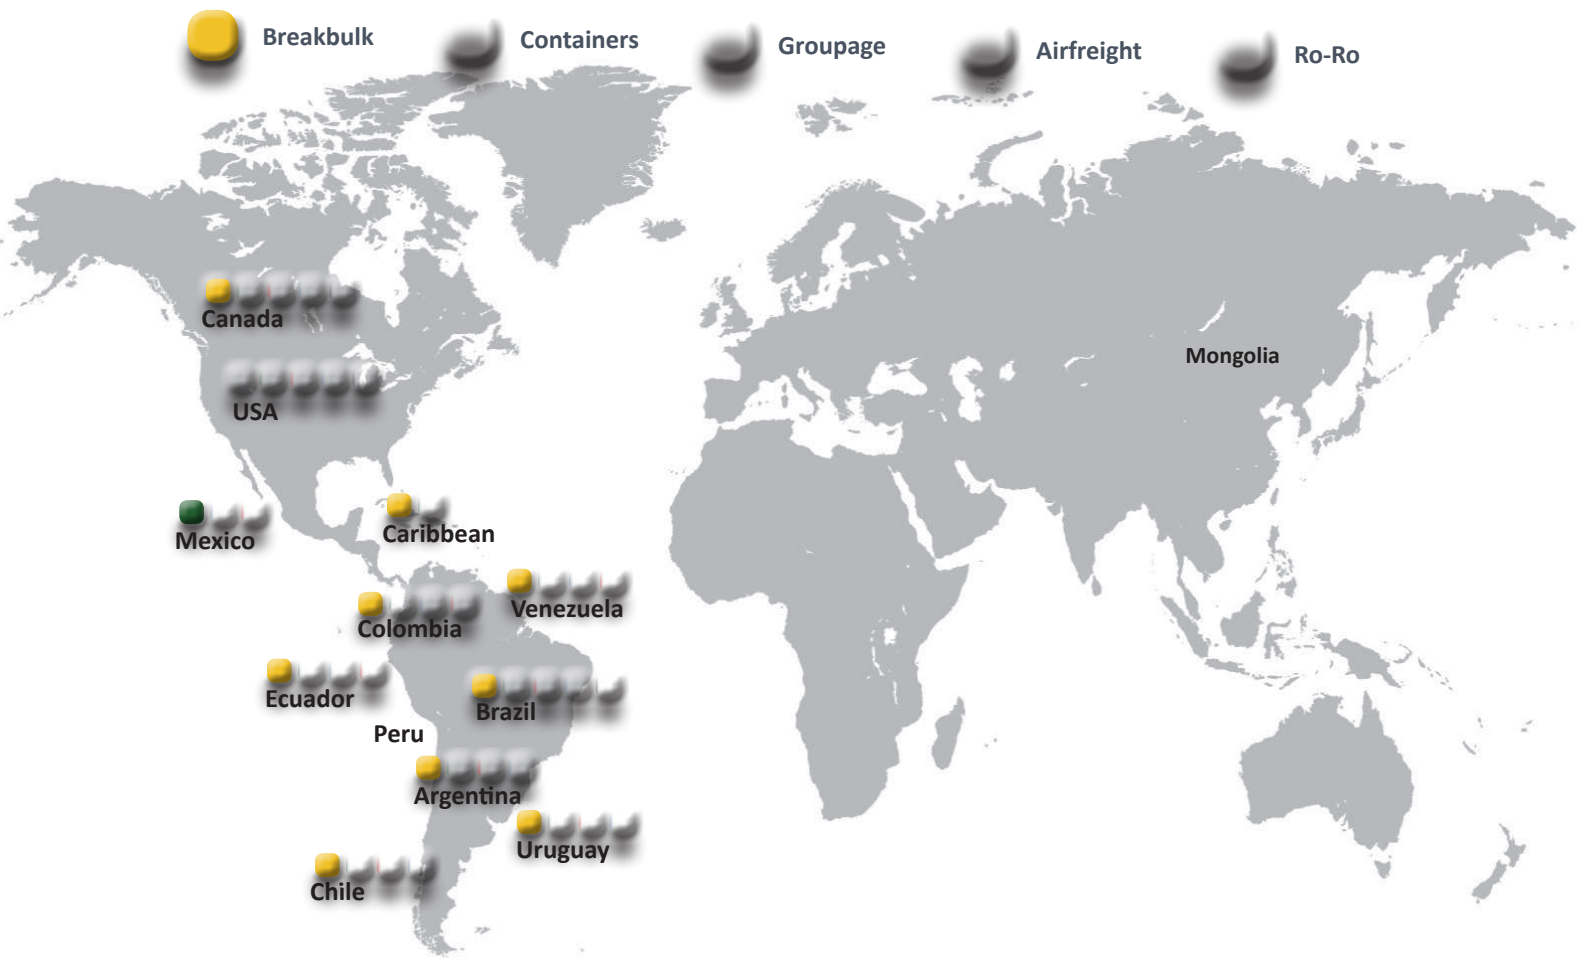

The Leinster Group began life as The Leinster Shipping Company in 1976 and settled in the heart of Georgian Dublin at Fitzwilliam Square, where its fine Head Office remains located to this day. Initially engaged in the business of Ship Management and Chartering, the Directors later diversified into other shipping-related activities to afford additional specialised services in Liner Agency, Ship-broking and Freight Forwarding.

The Liner Agency Company subsequently broadened its scope to include Port Agency. Similarly the Ship-broking Company extended into Commodity broking and the Forwarding Company developed into a fully-fledged Logistics organisation. This broadly-based infrastructure has enabled the Group to achieve sustained growth in a strongly competitive and cyclical market, for almost 40 years. Such success derives from the application of quality service, which depends in turn upon two vital elements; firstly knowing all the individual requirements and standards of our Customers and secondly creating the trained and qualified team to make those specific Customer needs our minimum benchmark. This proud tradition of best practice within the Leinster Group continues today.
